

Project Connection

RFK Charter High School

Project Overview

Flower Connection Project

Our student design team is creating handmade crochet flowers that students can clip onto their backpacks or shirts. We will pass them out to students around campus to spread positivity and kindness. Each flower will include a small motivational quote or sweet message. The goal is to help students feel more connected, supported, and seen at school.

These are the flowers and they would be in all different colors. They would say some motivational quotes like “You matter.” “You belong here.” “You are enough.” “Keep going.”

Why this project is important ?

Many students experience stress, anxiety, or loneliness during the school year. Some students may feel unnoticed or disconnected from their peers. Small acts of kindness can positively impact someone's mood and mental health. This project encourages inclusion and helps students feel seen and appreciated. Receiving a kind message can brighten someone's day and promote positivity. It also helps build stronger peer relationships and a more supportive school environment. Creating and sharing the flowers allows students to spread kindness in a creative way.

Hoped for outcomes

- Students feel more included, valued, and recognized within the school community.
- Increase in positive interactions and friendly conversations between peers.
- A stronger sense of unity and belonging throughout our campus.
- Students feeling more comfortable expressing kindness and support to others,
- A lasting culture of compassion and positivity that continues beyond this project
